

Lucio Diodati nasce nel 1955 a Popoli, un piccolo paese sulle colline abruzzesi, in Italia. Ha scoperto la sua passione per la pittura durante il liceo, quando ha iniziato a realizzare le sue prime opere. Nel 1975 ha frequentato un corso di scenografia presso l'Accademia di Belle Arti di L'Aquila, entrando ufficialmente nel mondo dell'arte. Il punto di svolta della sua carriera è stato l'incontro con Gennaro Fiume, un gallerista italiano che lo ha invitato a esporre nella sua galleria a Roma.

La natura è stata oggetto delle sue prime opere, caratterizzate principalmente da campi in fiore e l'uso dei colori primari. Con l'opera "Amiche" dal 1985, le donne diventano i protagonisti dei suoi dipinti. Corpi femminili e colori si uniscono per raccontare una storia che è ancora in corso. Nel 2002 si reca a L'Avana per la prima volta e da quel momento la città rappresenta una seconda casa, un luogo dove l'artista si ispira e libera la sua mente. Le opere di Diodati sono state esposte nelle principali città di tutto il mondo: New York, Londra, Montreal, Barcellona, Lisbona, Praga, Parigi e L'Avana.
